DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 14, 21 and 22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by POPP et al. (US 6,375,597).

Regarding claim 14, POPP discloses a method of increasing readiness of a crossover gear shift in an automatic transmission, the method comprising the steps of: attaining at least one of a snatch operation of the disengaging switching element (see Fig. 5C) and an increase of the transmission rotational speed gradient (shown in Fig. 5B) by providing a crossover gear shift switching command to the transmission (shown in Fig. 5A); actuating a motor fueling (starts at time t3, see Fig. 5B) from the transmission immediately after the crossover gear shift command (at time t1) upon one of a set transmission rotational speed (C, B or D is Fig.B) and a set motor torque (described in col. 5, lines 58 - 67) and maintaining the motor fueling during the crossover.

Regarding claim 21, POPP discloses the step of reducing pressure, in the disengaging switching element during the motor fueling such that the opening of the disengaging switching element is accelerated (shown in Fig. 5C).

Regarding claim 22, POPP discloses the step of increasing pressure, in the engaging switching element during the motor fueling (shown in Fig. 5D).

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 12/31/2008 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argues that Popp does not teach the engaging and disengaging of the transmission clutches being effected by an increase in the fuel to the engine or a resulting increase in engine input torque to the transmission during the shifting operation. Examiner disagrees. Fig. 5C shows is a chart representing the disengagement pressure of a clutch, the line with the points E, K and L represent the pressure profile when the maximum admissible heat is generated at the clutch (col. 5, lines 60-64). The heat is a result of the motor fueling during the shifting operation. The Examiner finds the Popp reference discloses all the claimed subject matter of the present application.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
